Think of all the time you spend crafting an argument, reproducing documents, lugging them into a courtroom and turning them over to a clerk's office that may be too bogged down to flip through countless pages.

Now imagine making a winning argument using simple applications, such as Adobe or Windows Media, where text and video testimony exist in one easy place for a judge to open quickly, accessing all citations and supporting information in easy-to-find links.

This is just one of many services offered by Cady Reporting.
